

Artificial Intelligence (AI) is Being Used To Scam You

Voicemail and Telco Threats

Scammers know no shame. Scammers have begun mining your voicemail personal greetings. They are recording your voice and name pronunciation. They then use this information with artificial intelligence to mimic a loved one's voice. They may make you think a loved one needs bail money or some other emergency or worse yet, think they have been kidnapped and demand a ransom.

For your safety, reset your home and cell voicemails to their computer generated defaults. Further, If you receive a call from an unrecognized number (most are fake sales calls to grab your voice), it is recommended that you do not answer and let the call go to voicemail.

To Reset your iPhone:

1. Select the Phone icon.
2. Select Greeting
3. The current greeting method will have a check next to it. Select Default.
4. Click Save.

For Android:

Follow the instructions for your version of Android.

It is highly recommended that you share this information with family and friends so that they can also be protected.
